SCHEDULE 1

Decision Making Policy of the College of Midwives of Manitoba

Decisions made by the Council and committees of the College shall follow the process set out in this Schedule.¹

1. Overview

1.1 Definition of Consensus

1.1 Consensus means that all persons involved in making a decision unanimously agree to support a decision made by such persons.

1.2 Components of Formal Consensus

1.2 Formal consensus has a clearly defined structure. It requires a commitment to active cooperation, disciplined speaking and listening, and respect for the contributions of every member. Likewise, every person has the responsibility to actively participate as a creative individual within the structure.

1.3 Objective

1.3 The objective of this Policy is to establish a formal consensus model for making decisions by the College.

2. Key Principles

2.1 (a) Trust

- Be open to new ideas.
- Acknowledge and respect personal and cultural differences.

2.1 (b) Respect

- Listen to other members without interruption.
- Respect both emotional and logical concerns.
- Focus on the action and not on the personal characteristics of individuals.

2.1 (c) Unity of Purpose

- Ensure that all members have a basic understanding of the goals and purpose of the group.
- A common understanding of the goals and purpose of the group should serve as a starting point for decision making.
- The establishment of a common understanding does not preclude a variety of opinions on how to achieve the goals and purpose.

2.1 (d) Cooperation

- Focus on developing a shared responsibility in finding solutions to all concerns.

2.1 (e) Commitment

- Accept personal responsibility to act in a manner that demonstrates respect, good will and honesty towards the group.
- Recognize that group needs may take precedence over individual desires.

¹ The process set out in this Policy is adapted from C.T. Lawrence Butler and Amy Rothstein, "On Conflict and Consensus: A Handbook on Formal Consensus Decision Making" (2nd edition, August 1991), Food Not Bombs Publishing.

2.1 (f) Active Participation

- Consensus is a process of synthesis, not competition, thus, all sincere comments are important and valuable.
- Stubbornness, closed-mindedness, and possessiveness should be minimized to avoid defensive and argumentative behaviour that may disrupt the process.
- Promote trust by creating an environment in which every contribution is considered valuable.

2.1 (g) Equal Access to Power

- Because of personal differences (experience, assertiveness, social conditioning, access to information, etc.) and political disparities, some people inevitably have more effective power than others.
- Attempt to balance this inequity, everyone needs to consciously attempt to creatively share power, skills, and information.
- Avoid hierarchical structures that allow some individuals to have a stronger voice than others.
- Egalitarian and accountable structures promote universal access to power.

2.1 (h) Patience

- Consensus cannot be rushed.
- Sometimes, when difficult situations arise, consensus requires more time to allow for the creative interplay of ideas.
- Consensus is possible as long as each individual acts patiently and respectfully.

2.1 (i) Equity

- Ensure that all decisions respect and uphold the College's commitment to equity.

3. Steps for Decision Making Using the Consensus Model3.1 Step 1: Introduce the Proposal Requiring a Decision

Ideally, proposals that require a decision should first appear on the agenda as an information item only. The issues to be considered should be outlined in a written proposal. Introduce the matter to be decided. Explain the reasons leading to the need for a decision. Address the benefits of the solution being proposed. Address any existing concerns. Discuss how the proposal will affect the College's commitment to equity.

At this stage, the chair of the meeting should restrict questions to those that seek greater clarification and comprehension of the proposal. This stage is not the time to express comments or concerns. If possible, once the proposal is introduced and clarified, table the matter to another meeting for further discussion and decision. This procedure gives members more time to consider the proposal.

3.2 Step 2: General Discussion [amended June 24, 2016]

Encourage broad discussion which takes the whole proposal into account. Discussion at this stage often has a philosophical or principled tone, purposely addressing how this proposal might affect the group in the long run or what kind of precedent it might create. It is important to ensure that one concern does not dominate other concerns. If necessary, remind participants of the principles set out in this Policy to be followed when developing a consensus. If there is general approval either the chair of the meeting or a member can call for consensus. To call for consensus, the chair of the meeting should ask members if there are any unresolved or outstanding concerns.

One method of determining if all concerns have been addressed is to invite each participant to make a statement regarding the participant's position on the matter in question. If no further concerns are raised, consensus is achieved.²

² It is important to note that the question is not "Is there consensus?" or "Does everyone agree?"

3.3Step 3: Identify Concerns

Identify all the concerns related to the decision in question. Techniques such as brainstorming can be used to develop a written list of concerns. Attempts to resolve concerns should be resisted. All concerns, reasonable or unreasonable, should be identified and respected. After all the concerns are listed, it may be helpful, where possible, to group concerns under common themes.

3.4Step 4: Resolve Concerns

Identify individual concerns or groups of concerns. Questions and comments are encouraged to help clarify the concerns. Each concern(s) should be discussed and resolved separately. After each concern has been thoroughly discussed or when the time allotted for each concern runs out, call for consensus.

4. Closing Options

4.1 Where consensus cannot be reached, one or more of the following closing options may be used.

4.1 Send to Committee

4.1 If a decision can wait, send the proposal to a committee which can clarify the concerns and bring new, creative resolutions for consideration by the group.

4.2 Stand Aside (Decision Adopted with Unresolved Concerns Recorded)

4.2 When a concern has been fully discussed and cannot be resolved, it is appropriate for the chair of the meeting to ask those persons with this concern if they are willing to stand aside; that is, acknowledge that the concern still exists, but allow the proposal to be adopted. The unresolved concern can then be recorded as a component of the decision.

4.3 Declare Block

4.3 If all the steps have been followed and a consensus cannot be reached, the chair of the meeting may declare a block. The decision is then either removed from the agenda or tabled to another meeting for further discussion.

5. Call for Majority Vote

5. In certain circumstances, a decision may be essential to protect the public or to preserve the regulation of midwifery in Manitoba. Where a good faith effort has been made to follow the steps set out in this policy and consensus is blocked, the chair of the meeting may call for a majority vote as specified in the by-law. Unless it is absolutely impossible, at least twenty-four (24) hours should elapse from the time of a block to the time when a vote is taken.

SCHEDULE 2

Conflict of Interest Policy for Council and Committee Members

1. General Principles

Council and committee members must be impartial in carrying out their duties for the College. They must be seen by members and the public to be fair and impartial toward those whose interests are at stake in any decision.

2. Conflict of Interest [amended June 24, 2016]

(e.g., a Council member who is closely related to the person who is being considered for the position of College registrar, must declare a conflict);
- b) an instance in which a Council or committee member is closely associated with a person who is the subject of a decision or action which is being considered by the Council or a committee. - a) immediately disclose the existence and nature of the conflict of interest to the Council or committee in question;
- b) withdraw from any and all discussions concerning the decision which is creating the conflict of interest; and
- c) not attempt in any way or at any time to influence the decision of Council or committee or the opinions of individual Council or committee members.

The minutes will reflect that the Council or committee member has abstained from any discussion where there could be a conflict or appearance of conflict of interest.

4. Interpretation of Conflict of Interest Policy

Where a Council or committee member is in doubt about whether the facts of a particular situation give rise to a conflict of interest, the Council or committee member shall present the facts to the Council or committee in question, which shall make a determination. The Council or committee member involved shall not vote on the matter and shall withdraw from the room.

5. Violation of the Conflict of Interest Policy

If it appears at any time to a Council or committee member or the registrar, or the College otherwise receives a complaint that there has been a violation of this Conflict of Interest Policy, the particulars shall be reported to the Council for review. The Council or committee member whose actions are the subject of the review shall be advised of the existence and substance of the complaint and given an opportunity to respond.
